

Gallaudet studies cochlear implants with scientists from Stanford, GWU

Twenty-five-year old Jeanette, deaf since age 18, recently had surgery to implant an electronic device into her inner ear. It was a costly operation, and some risk was involved. But the goal was an important one: to restore her hearing by stimulating her auditory nerve with electrical signals from the implant whatever sound is present.

Did the benefits outweigh the expense and the risk? Just what can Jeanette hear? Are other methods of restoring hearing safer and less costly?

William McFarland of the Audiology Department and James M. Pickett of the Research Institute are now working with scientists at Stanford University and George Washington University to find answers to questions such as these. The project is one of several currently underway at the Rehabilitation Engineering Center for the Hearing Impaired at Gallaudet, which began operation last October as the newest center within the Gallaudet Research Institute.

For about 25 years, cochlear implants have been studied as a means of restoring the hearing to deaf people. Only a few laboratories in the world are involved in the research and development of these devices. Cochlear implants seem to be most useful to persons who were born with normal hearing and who lost their hearing after some language had developed.

People who use the devices generally report that although they cannot understand speech through the use of

Nov. 9 paychecks to include increases

Faculty and staff paychecks will be a bit fatter on Nov. 9 to reflect the new Fiscal Year 1983 salary level.

The Nov. 9 paychecks will include salary increases for the Oct. 17-30 pay period. In addition, the increase for staff will be retroactive to Oct. 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year. Faculty members will also receive a retroactive adjustment based on when their contracts began.

Some faculty and staff members may receive two paychecks on Nov. 9—one for the normal pay period and the other for retroactive increase, if it is greater than $100.

International visitors

A group of 13 international visitors from developing countries around the world were honored at a reception here Oct. 4. The visitors, from Thailand, South Africa, Jamaica, West Indies, Malaysia and the Philippines, are participating in the 1982 International Seminar, sponsored by the International Center on Deafness, during the month of October. From left are Michael Mitchell, chief executive officer of the Jamaica Assn. for the Deaf; Ildiko Batory of Denmark, an international intern studying at Gallaudet this year; T. Joseph Morake, a teacher from South Africa; (in back) Ricardo de los Santos of the Philippines; Gideon Tsheketshe, teacher and superintendent from South Africa; and Siphino Mdima, from a deaf school in South Africa.

During their visit, seminar participants are giving presentations on deafness in their countries. A presentation by participants from Jamaica and Trinidad will be held on Monday, Oct. 25 from 7-9 p.m. and anyone interested can come. For further information, contact the ICD at x5316.

Gallaudet's male secretaries: overcoming a stereotype

tion as a means to an end.

Frankenberry said he believed the role of a secretary is in the process of re-definition. "We're in the beginning of a transitional period which has nothing to do with male or female. I think a secretarial position is beginning to be seen as a more vital one," he explained.

Frankenberry has been working since June 1981 at KDES where he is responsible for the smooth functioning of the Dean's Office. He also works on special projects. This is not his first secretarial job. From 1974-1976 Frankenberry worked as an administrative secretary in Gallaudet's Department of Education. In between he opened a ceramics shop in Alexandria and worked at the National Headquarters of the George Bush for President campaign and the National Association of the Deaf.

Frankenberry did not necessarily choose secretarial work as his career but said because of his experience and qualifications he feels it is the most realistic kind of work for him at this time.

Elliot Brumberger, a secretary/receptionist in the Alumni and Public Relations Office, said the last thing he ever dreamed of was being a secretary. He said it was not so much attitudes of others but his own attitude about stereotypes that made acceptance of his position difficult at times. "I have to deal with the fact that I'm a man in this position. But I'm trying to keep an open attitude and am fairly comfortable here," he explained. "However, I'm working on being 100% comfortable. Having never been a secretary, it's a real change."

Brumberger's first love is refereeing basketball and soccer. He's been doing that in the Washington area for the past six years. He was a Peace Corps volunteer in Korea in the late 60s and has a Bachelor of Arts in Sociology. The one course he said was probably the best he has ever taken was typing. "It's one I never forgot," he said. Brumberger first became interested in working at Gallaudet when he took a few graduate level and sign language courses here.

Bob Alexander also became interested in working at Gallaudet while

"Just as women are feeling more comfortable and accepted in traditional male-oriented positions, so too are men beginning to feel more comfortable in traditional female-oriented positions," said Chuck Frankenberry, administrative secretary to Kendall Demonstration Elementary School Dean Mike Deninger.

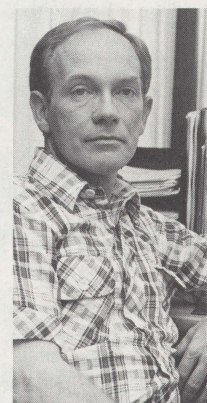

Frankenberry is one of six men out of about 150 secretaries employed at Gallaudet. They work all over campus and are here for different reasons. One chose secretarial work as a career; another found it the best way to earn money right now; others see the posi-

Library Bits & Pieces

The case of the late projector

by Eileen Ford

(Please note: all names have been changed to protect the innocent or guilty!)

On Monday, Sept. 27, 1982, Sara Burnhard stopped at the Individualized Learning Desk and made a reservation to borrow a 16 mm movie projector that she would pick up that Friday. That same day, Joe Smooth asked to borrow a 16 mm movie projector to use until Wednesday, Sept. 29. Joe Smooth was informed that the projector was reserved for Sarah Burnhard on Friday, Oct. 1 so he should return it on time. He agreed and signed out the projector.

On Friday, Oct. 1, at approximately 4:05 p.m., Sarah Burnhard stopped by the Individualized Learning Desk to pick up the 16 mm projector. She was informed that the projector was out. Sarah became frantic. "What am I to do? I have a group that meets at 6:30 p.m. and our showing has been scheduled for over a month."

Sarah was told to call back later—

maybe the projector would arrive; after all, Joe Smooth had been sent two overdue notices, and we would try one final phone call to his office. Sarah called every half hour until the Library closed. Unfortunately, the projector was not returned on time, Sarah's showing had to be canceled and her group was disappointed.

Did you expect a happy ending?

When most people come to the Library to borrow a popular book, if they don't see the first copy on the shelf they may find a second or third copy of it, or even a similar or better book. However, this doesn't apply to equipment. Our Library contains thousands of books but only a limited number of items of equipment for loan. If a 16 mm projector is needed to show a film, there is nothing to substitute for it.

Bringing borrowed equipment back on time has become a major problem in the Individualized Learning Media area. We are here to service an entire campus community, but we can't do it without your help. When you borrow equipment, please return it when due.

Thank you, the Individualized Learning staff.

"To Hear" on PBS

"To Hear," a closed-captioned television program about the sense of hearing, will be shown locally on WETA, Channel 26, on Wednesday, Oct. 27 at 8 p.m. The program is an hour-long exploration of hearing with some information about hearing impairment.

Made for PBS by KOCE-TV in California, "To Hear" was planned to be followed by a group of half-hour programs on such topics as hearing loss and children and hearing impairment as part of aging. Gallaudet was the location for some of the material in the follow-up programs, which have not yet been scheduled to appear on PBS-TV.

Among Ourselves

Deborah Sonnenstrahl, director of Fine Arts in Education, presented two workshops at the Museum of Science in Boston, MA on Oct. 2. The first workshop, "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Deaf Museum Visitors But Didn't Know How to Ask," was conducted for the museum professionals. The second workshop was presented to the deaf adults from the Boston community. Both workshops were assisted by Gina Oliva, then with the National Academy. A total of 55 people attended, and participants said they found the workshops educational and informative.

Bruce White of the English Department attended a three-day American Studies Conference at the University of Wyoming recently. The theme of the conference was "Liberal and Radical Traditions West of the Mississippi" and White presented a paper on the liberal stances of Joaquin Miller. This paper will be included in the published proceedings of the conference.

Correction

On the Green wishes to correct a grave error made in the Oct. 4 "Serendipity" column. Therein it was reported that vandals forced their way into the mausoleum on the old Patterson property, part of which now belong to Gallaudet, and "dragging the department from their caskets, they left their remains strewn on the floor."

We wish to assure everyone that the departments are still alive and well at Gallaudet and that it was the "departed" who were dragged from their caskets.

We trust that imparting this information will allow those concerned to rest in peace.

Mime performance scheduled Oct. 29

The Echo Mime Company will present a family show combining whiteface illusionary mime with clowning and juggling in a collection of skits and comic routines on Oct. 29.

The performance will be held at 8 p.m. in the new YWCA Penney Auditorium, 624 9th St. NW. Tickets are $4.50 for adults and $3 for children. Discount rates are available for groups and hearing impaired and handicapped persons.

The Echo Mime Company has entertained around the country. Believing that mime is an ideal art form for hearing impaired people, the company has taught and performed in deaf schools from California to Connecticut and has also done street performances in San Francisco, Los Angeles and New Orleans.

For further information call Janice Gorton, YWCA, 638-2100 or Lin Murphy at 588-1947.

MSSD juniors and seniors had an opportunity to meet with representatives from 15 postsecondary institutions to learn about job opportunities and training available for hearing impaired people at a College Fair Oct. 11. The event was sponsored by MSSD's Diagnostic and Support Services area.

their devices alone, the device links them to sounds in their environment, allows them to recognize certain sounds and aids their lipreading skills significantly.

The major problem still to be solved is how to replace the inner ear's ability to analyze frequencies. This frequency analysis allows one to recognize different sounds, as in speech. Electronic implant designs that are currently known do not provide a highly sufficient replacement.

McFarland and Pickett will identify deaf people who are currently unable to benefit from a hearing aid and who became deaf after the development of language and speech. Once several prospective recipients have been identified, they will undergo surgery, and then a training program will begin. Participants in the study will be required to take training and complete hearing evaluations at regular intervals. Results of the tests will form the basis for evaluating the success of the implanted device.

The research project is supported in part by a grant from the National Institute for Handicapped Research, U.S. Department of Education.

Persons interested in obtaining more information about the project should contact William McFarland, Department of Audiology, x5328 voice or TDD.

OHDS proposed priorities released

The Office of Human Development Services (OHDS) within the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) recently announced its funding priorities for Fiscal Year 1983 and the first quarter of FY 1984. Comments on these proposed priorities must be in to the agency by Oct. 23.

Final priorities resulting from this process will dictate the type of social service projects that OHDS will support during the next 15 months. They will be contained in a formal grant announcement to be issued by OHDS officials.

The four major priority areas are: 1) The reduction of dependency on social service through social and economic development strategies that generate opportunities for individual and family self-sufficiency; 2) Increased responsiveness of social services to local needs and priorities; 3) Improved use of resources through more efficient administration of programs and provision of services; and 4) Prevention of the need for social services.

For a detailed listing of items within priority areas, contact the Office of Sponsored Research or check the Sept. 28 issue of Federal Grants and Contracts Weekly.

Combined Federal Campaign begins

The Combined Federal Campaign (CFC) of the National Capital Area is again underway. The CFC is a once-a-year solicitation of government employees for the support of voluntary health and social service agencies in the Metropolitan area and around in the world. As in previous years, Gallaudet College will be an active participant in this effort. Jo-Anne Jones of the Personnel Office and Allen Nowell of the Department of Safety and Security have been named to co-chair the efforts on Kendall Green.

"This year we are encouraging faculty and staff to specifically designate one of the 194 agencies participating in the CFC program which they would like to support through payroll deductions," said Jo-Anne Jones.

New play begins Oct. 29

Gallaudet's Department of Theatre Arts will perform a new play by William Moses On Oct. 29-30 and Nov. 5-6.

"The Kid" weaves together gestures, movement and mime to tell the adventures of a modern day "Everyman." It will be performed at 8 p.m. in the Elstad Auditorium.

Tickets for the performance are $2.50 for students and $4.50 for others. To order a ticket or make a reservation, call x5605 voice or x5608 TDD.

Tickets available at Student Union

The Student Union in Ely Center has tickets on sale for the following events:

- Washington Caps Hockey, Dec. 7 and 12, $5.
- Washington Bullets Basketball, Nov. 3, $7 and $4.
- Holly Near at U.D.C. (Interpreted Performance), Oct. 31, $8.
- Toby's Dinner Theatre, "Brigadoon" (Interpreted Performance), Nov. 12 and Dec. 3, $15.25.

Gallaudet College is an equal opportunity employer-education institution. Programs and services offered by Gallaudet College received substantial financial support from the Department of Education.

The participating organizations include health agencies such as the American Cancer Society and the Heart Association as well as service organizations such as Big Brothers and the D.C. Special Olympics. Contributions to the CFC are audited by the Government Accounting Office to ensure that contributions designated to a specific agency are actually routed to the intended organizations. Previous GAO audits confirm that only about 3.5% of CFC contributions go to support the administrative costs of the fundraising program, making it the most efficient and cost effective means of raising money for these needy organizations.

While Gallaudet College has generally met or even exceeded its campaign goals in past years, level of participation among faculty and staff has tended to be well below participation levels elsewhere in the federal system. For example, only 23% of Gallaudet's employees contributed in 1981.

"Many of the CFC agencies are especially dependent on voluntary contributions this year because of the cuts in federal spending programs," said Allen Nowell. "Your contributions can make a real difference in someone's life."

Secretaries

he was taking sign language courses here. He has been the secretary for Educational Technology and Educational Foundations and Research in the Department of Education for a little more than two years. This position was not his first as a secretary. While he was attending college he worked part-time as a clerk/typist for the Department of Labor. While he enjoys his work right now, he eventually hopes to become a legal interpreter. He is in the Antioch School of Law Masters Program and in Gallaudet's evening Interpreter Training Program. When Alexander is not going to school or at work, one can find him out on Gallaudet's track. He is head cross country coach this year and assistant track coach.

Gerald Buisson, who is a secretary for Gallaudet College Press, became interested in the field of deafness when he as living in New Orleans. He interpreted at Delgado Community College in that city and met his wife in the Interpreter Training Program. He sees his position at Gallaudet as a means to an end. "I eventually want to become a certified interpreter. In the future my wife and I would like to open up a private pre-school for both deaf and hearing children," he said.

Buisson pointed out that the two secretaries that previously held his position were men but Buisson himself never before worked as a secretary. "When I first started working I would hesitate before telling someone what I did. Now, I still hesitate a little, but not as much," he explained. Buisson has a A.A. in Manual Communication and has almost completed his Bachelor of Arts degree in Elementary Education.

Thomas Atkins, administrative secretary to the Affiliated Schools Program and Perspectives Magazine in Pre-College Programs said his association with friends who were deaf influenced his choosing to work at Gallaudet. "I came to visit a friend on campus one day. I decided I had to work here, called Personnel and asked for as many interviews as they could set up for me that day," explained Atkins. It's his first position as a secretary and he, too, feels it is a means to an end for him. "I really love my work and believe I can learn a lot from the people on Outreach. I feel I know what's going on in the field of deafness because the people I work for have contact with schools for the deaf from all over the country," he said.

Accounts Receivable Technician Ernest Adkins was honored for 25 years of service to Gallaudet at a Sept. 28 reception. Adkins has worked in a variety of areas on campus for the past 25 years and has been with the Accounting Office since 1972.

The regular issue of On the Green will be replaced with a special eight-page fact sheet on Gallaudet on Oct. 25. Deadline for submitting information for the Nov. 1 OTG is Oct. 22.

In addition to his full time job Atkins is teaching an MSSD student to play the organ. He also works with the MSSD Drama Club and is taking sign language classes. In his spare time he is trying to get a book published. "I hope my book will make a clear statement about a hearing person wanting to be understood by deaf people," he explained.

Unlike the other men working as secretaries on campus, L. Louis Coney, Jr. chose his profession early in life. He described himself as a realist. "Typing is a basis for everything else. At the time when I was deciding on a career, male secretaries were at a premium and I like specialized jobs. I seemed to be good at it and I also realized the value of a good secretary," he said. Coney is a secretary for the Department of Sign Communication. He is one of three people at Gallaudet who is a Certified Professional Secretary, and he was also the first male member of what is now named the Professional Secretary's Association in Baltimore.

Coney came to Gallaudet because he hopes to become a certified interpreter. He does some interpreting off-campus now and also works part-time as an arts administrator for the Urban League.

Personalities

Marie Taccogna has joined the staff of Gallaudet Interpreting Services as its coordinator. She comes here from New York Society for the Deaf where she was an interpreter and coordinator of Interpreter Services since 1976. She has also taught ASL classes at the College of Staten Island and has interpreted on Broadway through the Theatre Development Fund. She holds the Comprehensive Skills Certificate from the Registry of Interpreters of the Deaf as well as other certificates in sign language instruction.

Oliva

Gina Oliva is the new assistant to the vice president for Planning in the Institutional Advancement Office. She has worked at Gallaudet since 1971, most recently as director of the Office of Training in the National Academy. Oliva will be holding her new position part-time and working on her PhD.

Cangiano

Hancock

Carole Cangiano is now the coordinator of Planned Giving and Major Gifts in the Development Office. She has worked as the assistant to the vice president in the Institutional Advancement Office since 1981 and also worked with the renovation project for the E.M.G. Memorial Building and taught at Kendall School for four years.

Linda Hancock is now an administrative secretary in the Institutional Advancement Office and will be responsible for managing the office. She has worked as a secretary in the Institutional Advancement Office since September, 1981.

Nomeland

Melvia Nomeland is now a full-time instructor at KDES. She has done temporary and substitute teaching at both KDES and MSSD for several years.

Faculty and staff can participate in intramurals

Faculty and staff have the opportunity to participate in a variety of activities through Gallaudet's Intramurals Programs this year.

Open volleyball will be offered on Tuesdays and Thursdays from noon-1 p.m. in the Field House. There is no need to register; just come on over to get some games going.

Also a new Health Club for faculty and staff is getting started. The organizational meeting will be held Thursday, Oct. 21 at 5 p.m. in Hughes Gym. The club plans to include weight training, nutrition, individually designed exercise programs, speakers on special interest areas and whatever else the club members wish to include to improve their health.

Health Club members will be able to use the weight room Monday, Wednesday and Friday at noon. Also, every other Thursday evening members will get together for instruction meetings, question and answer sessions, and just plain fun.

Racquetball is available to interested persons, and an ongoing racquetball ladder is available for anyone to join at any time. Check the bulletin board near the courts for more information, and slip a piece of paper with your name, department and phone number on it into the envelope if you wish to be added to the ladder.

Suggestions for additional sports are encouraged. Feel free to contact the Intramural office (Carol Rubin, director) between 1-6 p.m. at x5361 or leave a message in P.O. Box 1387.

Host a student for Thanksgiving

Many international students at Gallaudet will be staying on campus far from home on Thanksgiving.

Would you like to welcome a student from another country to your home for dinner? If you would like to share this experience with an international student, please contact Toni Rees, coordinator of Services for International Students, Ely Center, x5602 voice or TDD.

Eagles win cliffhanger

by Mike Kaika

The MSSD Eagles defeated Riverdale Baptist 20-14 last week in a game that had everyone on edge in the last 10 seconds of the game.

MSSD got things rolling in the second quarter when Sean Markel, who gained 104 yards on 25 carries for the day, scored the first TD of the game on a five yard run. Markel also rushed over for the two point conversion. Riverdale came right back with a TD on a 11 yard run and the extra point kick was good. With MSSD leading 8-7 and with minutes remaining in the half, the Eagles moved the ball well and Markel scored his second TD of the game on a two yard run. The extra point conversion was stopped but MSSD took a 14-7 halftime lead.

In the third quarter, a Riverdale defensive player picked up an Eagle

Bison lose close game

by Mike Kaika

Gallaudet lost another close game Oct. 9 to Anne Arundel 15-6 at Hotchkiss Field before a sparse crowd of about 300 fans. Traditionally, home games are well attended until after the Homecoming game but that was not the case this game.

Anne Arundel put points on the scoreboard in the opening minutes of the game by sacking the Bison punter in the endzone for a safety. Gallaudet punted from the 20 yard line and on AA's first play from scrimmage, Arundel's quarterback threw a 41 yard TD pass. The extra point kick was wide.

In the second quarter, Gallaudet had two scoring threats stopped. The Bison moved the ball well with some great running by tailback Mike Chappell who rushed for 132 yards on 25 carries. The Bison got to AA's 20 yard line but lost the ball on downs. In its next scoring attempt, Gallaudet had the ball first and 10 on Arundel's 30 yard line but a Ripley's pass was intercepted at the 10 yard line. The Bison defense played well, never permitting AA to mount a threat after AA's TD pass in the first quarter.

In the third quarter AA added another TD. Again AA's quarterback lofted a 40 yard pass to his receiver who was brought down at the one yard line. On the next offensive play, Arundel's runningback barreled over for a TD. The extra point kick was good and AA led 15-0.

Gallaudet struck pay dirt with about a minute left in the game when Mike Chappell rushed over from the five yard line to culminate a 30 yard drive.

Other College games . . . The field hockey team is sporting a 2-3-2 record with wins over Essex and Washington Bible by scores of 3-1. Sept. 30 the field hockey team played Wilson College to a 0-0 tie and lost to Trinity Oct. 5, 3-1. A game against Hood College was postponed to a later date.

The soccer team picked up another victory Oct. 5 defeating Coppin State 5-3 but lost to Hagerstown 4-1 a few days later. The soccer team now has a 5-3 record with four games remaining.

The women's volleyball team won one match the week of Oct. 4 while losing three. The Bisonettes defeated York College Oct. 5. The volleyball team hosted a tourney in the Field House but results were not available at press time.

The cross country team has participated in several meets so far but none are official meets due to insufficient runners. When practice started, coach Bob Alexander had at least five men and five women—the minimum number required to officially run in each division—but injuries, grades and apparent lack of interest reduced to the team to less than the minimum numbers before the first meet. The harriers are still competing to stay in shape and improve themselves for the Regionals and Nationals scheduled for the end of this month.

charged down the sideline screaming at the official for stopping the clock. "My players were doing exactly what the rules permit in this kind of situation," said Westermann. "They were getting into position but not in a hurry. The NFL rule does permit the official to stop the clock if the defensive team stalls but this is not the NFL."

On Riverdale's next play a runningback barreled over for what appeared to be a TD but an official called a motion penalty against Riverdale and the ball was moved back to the six yard line. Nobody saw any illegal motion on Riverdale's part except one official. A game cannot end on a penalty so with 0:00 on the clock Riverdale had one last play. The quarterback attempted a pass but an Eagle linebacker batted the ball away from a Riverdale receiver, giving MSSD a 20-14 hair raising victory. MSSD is now 2-3 for the season.

Eagle head coach Bob Westermann
